Personal Profile

From a very young age I was introduced to the first computers on the market and learned me my first programming language (BASIC). Coming from a musical family I learned to play and listen to music and see sound as a vocabulary in multiple ways. With this background came my severe interest in altering the digital, physical and spiritual world. My architectural study, programming, creating and playing (board)games and making music are all explorations in this domain of interacting with my environment.
